

Sunday Service January 31st 2021

Written and recorded by Gina Langsfield

during the closure, for the

Spiritualist Association of Great Britain

Good afternoon to all our dear SAGB friends, this is Gina Langsfield, speaking to you on behalf of the SAGB and welcoming you to our Sunday Reunion. For those joining us on Zoom please welcome our medium for today, Daniel Pitt, and to our chair-person for today, Karl Duncan.

Would you please join me in prayer

Dear God, loving Spirit

We pray today for all the many victims of Covid, the many victims of the Holocaust and all cruelty and tragedy.

We pray also that as we continue our journey towards the life of normal life we are able to recognise the signs Spirit send us along our way and accept that moments of magic can still be accepted into our lives.

Amen

Letting the magic in

The title of the song listeners hear today 'When You Wish Upon A Star' take many of us back to our childhood and remind us of something which sadly, seems to be missing from so many of our hearts and mind's..... magic.

How do we all define the magic we felt in childhood? It is much easier to recall how it felt than it is to describe how it felt. I have analysed this and have come up with an answer, by my definition anyway.

Magic, is when we let our senses be heightened and inspired to the level of a Spirit person senses. How many times are we told that everything is so much more intense in Spirit the euphoria of love, sound, colour, music, nature, special events. This is because sensitivity of the Spirit person is awakened to its fullest and their experiencing level is on a higher frequency much like that of an exuberant child on the earth, or to put it simply the feeling of magic.

The sad part is that on earth those of us who do still keep that exuberance, brought with us from Spirit, tend to get it knocked out of us by others using such phrases as 'For goodness sake, grow up' or 'She lives in a world of her own,' 'He needs to come down to earth and be sensible' on the contrary the old Chinese proverb was right, 'The wise man is he who keeps his child's heart.'

The full memory of the one who 'lives in a world of her own' is remembering a world which really belongs to us all, a world of Spirit, and WE shouldn't come down to earth and be sensible, we would be far more sensible by raising our vibration up to Spirit's, they are the wise ones, they understand the value of feeling magic and how it can uplift us all.

People here on earth are letting themselves be brainwashed into losing their natural spiritual euphoria. Excitement and intensity aren't valued here. Accept in the pursuit of savers or a large bank balance.

We have all heard the expression 'Heaven on Earth' how will we get closer to that reality by showing kindness, love and service to others obviously, but it goes even further, heaven here is a state of mind.

A child is in heaven when they see the Christmas tree or go on a train to the seaside, when they see sights or sounds of a funfair or see a magical film on the screen, when they walk with their arms around their friend or most of all, are held in their mother's arms.

Perhaps we should all symbolically speaking, take time to wish upon that star to trust and believe and especially as times get better again. Be in awe of all the wonderful things that we could all appreciate so much more by letting our childhood appreciation in, letting our spiritual connection in... letting magic in.

On behalf of our manager Karl and the trustees, our staff, mediums, healers and of course myself, may magic always be a part of your life.

And for our Zoom listeners back over now to our manager and chair-person Karl Duncan.
